Many companies not only encourage their employees to give to and volunteer time to nonprofits in their communities, but also will match those efforts with dollars.

Workplace giving contributes an estimated $5 billion to U.S. charities each year. Workplace giving programs can be set up in a variety of ways. Some of the more popular workplace giving programs offered by companies are:

- Employee Matching Gifts
- Volunteer Support Programs
- Donations through Payroll Deduction
- Annual Giving Campaigns

Employee Matching Gifts are the most common workplace match program. These matching gifts are often a dollar-for-dollar match, but some companies will give double or even triple the original donation! Guidelines and amounts vary with each company.
